New Firm Due To Open Here December 1

Andover's newest industry, Brockway-Smith-Haigh-Lovell Co., is just about ready to open its doors.

The $1,000,000, warehouse-manufacturing facility, located at 146 Dascomb road, is shown in a photo in this week's TOWNSMAN, showing its near-completed status.

C. Fred Smith, Jr., president of the firm, told the TOWNSMAN this week, that progress on the new construction has been such in the last year, that the building is very nearly completed and the firm expects to move from its Charlestown location to Andover about Dec. 1.

Cafeteria Director To Retire

Mrs. Florence McGrath, who has directed Andover's public school cafeterias, is stepping down effective Dec. 31.

The cafeteria director submitted her resignation to the school committee Tuesday night and it was accepted with deep regret. School administrators were in unanimous agreement that her stepping down will leave a void difficult to fill.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, in praising the work performed by Mrs. McGrath, said:

The twin boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. George H. Saalfrank, 14 Bannister Road. The boys will be facing stiff competition, since the family also includes four girls.

Bargainers Far Apart

Teacher Salary Negotiations Underway

Public collective bargaining sessions between Andover's teachers and the school committee are now going on, with two-thirds of a million dollars in pay increases under discussion.

Teacher-negotiators are asking a $700 hike in the present $6700 minimum teacher pay, while the school committee has countered with an offer of $200. But there's a lot more to it than that.

Anyone interested in these instructive sessions can begin by attending this Friday's 3 p.m. session in the Central School building.

When the negotiators are talking about working conditions, they seem to be holding hands across the table, but when it comes to dollars, and the issues they represent, it's more like a tug of war.

Mrs. Virginia Cole speaks for the town's elected school committee, while bargainers for the Andover Education Association, which represents the schools' professional staff, are chief negotiator Mrs. Helen Enman, and Douglas Walshe, both teachers, and Edwin Regan, the administrators' representative.

At particular issue for the AEA is the bachelor's degree pay scale, for which they seek preferential increases this year. AEA negotiators seek to change the bachelor's scale from the present 12 yearly-step scale of $6700-$9700 to a scale which begins at $7500 and rises to $12,000 in 10 yearly steps, if professional growth requirements are met. The AEA claims that the school committee has financially discriminated against teachers with both expertise and experience, but no master's degree.

Mrs. Cole rejected the AEA proposal Monday, and offered the school committee's counter-proposal.

Weather Causes Delay In Building Projects

The rainy spell of the past two weeks has had its effect on two major building projects in town.

Roofing of the public safety center on North Main street, was held up since the shinglers could not work during the inclement weather.

The same condition existed at the West Elementary school addition, where the steady rainfall during a 12 day period, prevented construction work to proceed on schedule.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin said this week that both projects appeared to be moving on schedule until they were beset by weather problems.

The manager said it was too early to evaluate the damage caused by the temporary setback. It is believed that the move from the Central fire station and the police station to their new facilities, may be delayed by about a month, which would place the two departments in the single building about early March, rather than in February, which was the target date.

Early Deadline

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday next Thursday, Nov. 27, the regular edition of the TOWNSMAN, will be published a day early on Wednesday, Nov. 26.

To facilitate production of next week's issue, early copy would be appreciated. The TOWNSMAN offices will be open all day Friday and Saturday morning. Final deadline for all news and advertising copy will be Monday, Nov. 24 at noon.

Millions Of IRS Forms Leave Andover

That inevitable period has arrived, despite the holiday season.

It is time to start thinking about the filing of 1969 income tax returns, and Andover is becoming an important address to some 11,000,000 taxpayers.

This year, for the first time, the pre-addressed forms forwarded to taxpayers will be forwarded from the North Atlantic Service Center on Lowell street.

Underway already are the processing of 11,787,354 forms from the Lowell street building.

The forms will be sent to taxpayers in the New England states and New York, which is serviced by the Andover Internal Revenue Service building.

Prior to this year, the work was done at the Lake street building in Lawrence.

To Dedicate 'Andover' Landmarks

TO BE DEDICATED. The old brick store, in North Andover center, will be dedicated by the North Andover Historical Society later this month. The building, along with the hay scales, will be commemorated as one of the communities oldest buildings, still in continuing operation. In its many years, it has served as a store, Masonic hall, post office, and a variety of other uses. It is one of the many holdings of the suburban Historical group and was a part of the original Andover, before the two towns became separate corporate communities.

Two of the oldest corporations in Greater Lawrence will be honored on Saturday, Nov. 29, by members of the North Andover Historical Society, according to an announcement today from S. Forbes Rockwell, Jr., president.

Ceremonies beginning at 2:30 p.m. in the North Parish Church will feature Walter Muir Whitehill, the nationally-known historian and preservationist, who will speak on "The Brick Store Company and the Hay Scales Company in Andover North Parish." Afterwards, those present will go across the street where bronze plaques will be mounted on the Brick Store and the Hay Scales buildings, the surviving memorials of the two corporations.

The public is invited to enjoy refreshments in the Historical Society after the plaques are mounted.

The Hay Scales Company in Andover North Parish was incorporated in 1818 by local farmers who needed a means of carefully weighing the hay they intended to sell. For a century afterwards, the company served its purpose. When the original building proved to be inadequate, a second building - the surviving structure - was erected in 1833, at the corner of Andover and Osgood Streets. Today the building is owned and maintained by the North Andover Historical Society.

The Brick Store Company in Andover North Parish was incorporated in 1828 and the building for the company was finished a year later. In the course of its long career it has served as a meeting place for Masons, a school, a post office, a bank and a general store. Located at the corner of Andover and Johnson Streets, it serves today as a general store, thrift shop, studio and store keeper's apartment. It is the oldest surviving commercial structure in North Andover. The company is owned by the North Andover Historical Society.

During the last decade, the Historical Society's subsidiary, the Center Realty Trust, has purchased nearly a dozen other properties in North Andover. The Trust attempts to keep its buildings in use, largely as residences, and the buildings continue to produce tax revenue for the town of North Andover. This novel approach to preservation has attracted much attention from other preservation groups in the United States, some of whom are adopting a similar approach. At the same time, the Trust's local success has ensured the preservation of the most unique feature of North Andover: the Old Center. It sets North Andover apart from almost every other town in New England and attracts hundreds of visitors each year. Many families who have moved into North Andover recently have joined the Historical Society, in order to support the preservation of the area where Andover's original settlers lived.

Trees do not grow unless the average temperature of the warmest month is above 50 F., even if other environmental conditions are ideal, the Massachusetts Audubon Society points out.

Your Realtor has the necessary information concerning local zoning requirements.

What is "zoning"?

Zoning is the process of dividing cities into districts or zones. This is done on the basis of how the land is used. The city may decide, within reasonable limits, what types of buildings can be constructed. It may also specify what the property can be used for.

Zoning seeks to promote the health, safety, and welfare of the citizens. Districts are usually zoned as residential, commercial, or industrial. Single residences can be built in almost any area.

Commercial uses may appear in industrial areas. However, they usually cannot be introduced in a residential zone. There are occasional exceptions to zoning regulations. There are called "variance permits".

Zoning has a stabilizing influence on real estate values. For more specific zoning information, see your Realtor.

The next camping trip is scheduled for the weekend of Nov. 24 in New Hampshire and will include mountain climbing. Robert Smith, North Essex Scout Executive, spoke of the Scout Night to be held in the local schools throughout New England on Thursday, Nov. 20 and indicated the value of both Cub Scouting and Boy Scouting to the development of boys. George Gliss, president of the North Essex Boy Scout Council spoke of the plans the council had for the further improvement of Camp Onway and the value the boys could obtain from a week at camp. He indicated that the Council was trying to do everything in its power to keep cost as low as possible in order that the summer camp be within the means of all boys.

Richard Mower, treasurer, presented the color award to the pastor. This award was won by Troop 75 during their week at camp for being the best troop in Camp Onway and meeting the objectives of the camp.

It is luncheon reservation time again for Andover's senior citizens.

Everyone over 60 is invited to attend the December luncheon sponsored by the Council on Aging. It will be Dec. 2, at one o'clock, at the Greater Lawrence Vocational High School. Buses providing free transportation will leave The Haven on Barnard St., at 12:30. Reservations are necessary and may be made by phone to The Haven, 475-3968. The luncheon costs fifty cents.

Those Andoverites who use The Haven, Andover's senior citizen drop-in center, are especially pleased about their new American flag. It was presented last week by the local American Legion and is much appreciated.

LATE COACH, HEADMASTER. The late Eugene Lovely is shown in a portrait located at Andover High school where he was football coach and principal for many years. The new football field at the school will be dedicated in his honor prior to the Andover-North Andover football game Thanksgiving morning.

To Honor Former Coach Principal Before Game

Brief, but impressive ceremonies, are scheduled for Thanksgiving morning at the Eugene V. Lovely field, prior to the opening kickoff of the traditional Andover-North Andover football game.

The field will be dedicated in memory of the late football coach and principal of Punchard High school, who is a member of the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame.

J. Everett Collins, who played on the first team coached by "Pop" Lovely, and which was undefeated, will be the master of ceremonies as plaque honoring the late administrator and sportsman, is unveiled.

Members of teams from 1911 through 1941 will participate in the ceremonies.

In his years as coach at Punchard, Lovely was considered a tough taskmaster who turned out winning teams and who produced men who were true sportsmen and in perfect physical condition.

He always referred to his players, as "my boys," and was proud of the young men he turned out on the field of friendly battle.

His overall record as a coach for over 30 years was .728.

Of him, his fellow coaches and members of the hall of fame, as well as those who played under his tutelage refer to him even today as a "gentleman, teacher, coach, principal, disciplinarian and friend."

He was an all state of Maine fullback for Bates college in 1910 and came to Andover to take over the reins of the Punchard team in 1911.

He was a physics and chemistry teacher at Punchard before being appointed principal, a post he held for many years prior to his retirement.

Contributions are still being sought by members of the committee.

It is expected that Mr. Lovely's son, Charles, headmaster at Marblehead High school, will be in attendance at the ceremonies on Thanksgiving Day.

Tri-Parish Service On Thanksgiving Eve

A tri-parish Thanksgiving Eve service is planned for Wednesday, Nov. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Free Christian Church, in conjunction with Christ Episcopal Church and South Church.

A combined choir from the three parishes will be led by the South Church's Keith Gould, and the speaker will be Miss Emily Preston, an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ who is known to many in Andover for her work with the Free Church's youth group several years ago.

The three downtown churches are planning this tri-parish Thanksgiving Eve service as another expression of their grass roots commitment toward the unity their denominations and others are seeking at the national level in the Conference On Church Union.

Bold Thief Steals TV

On Main St.

A bold thief escaped with a portable television set Wednesday night, Nov. 5, when he broke a display window in Hill's Hardware, 45 Main St.

The break was discovered about 10:50 p.m., when Patrolman Lawrence Lynch on foot patrol in the area found the hole in the $200 plate glass window.

Police theorize a club was used in breaking the glass since there was no evidence of rocks or other missiles being used.

The portable color television was valued at $299.95.

Patrolman Lynch who was checking business establishments, had just left the main street and was checking businesses on side streets when the break occurred.

Report Card Becomes Passe

This year's first elementary level report cards won't be cards at all -- they will be teacher-parent conferences, between now and Christmas vacation, arranged by appointment.

Meanwhile a group of teachers are seeking to develop a really effective "reporting instrument" for elementary schools, and a K-12 look at the reporting system is on the agenda.

Let some parents ignore the conferences, "because I know Johnny's not having any trouble," this point should be made clear: the first marking period teacher-parent conference is not a supplement to a report card, but a living breathing substitute for it!

Assistant Superintendent Vaughn I. Clapp, who told the school committee of the elementary school principals plans for improving their reporting systems, calls the conferences "two-way report cards", a means of communication between parent and teacher focusing on the child's progress.

Clapp says the conferences will give teachers a chance to hear the parents' observations on how a child's education is affecting him. Sounds as though this is more of the new administration's emphasis on hearing from the community.

Meanwhile, Clapp told the schoolmen Tuesday night, a group of teachers representing each elementary school has started in to design a report card which will replace the traditional A-F grading system.

It is the administration philosophy that the reporting system should reflect the program of the school. The administration points out that the traditional A-F report cards no longer come close to reflecting the educational program in our schools, and even when they did, the grades were often more misleading than parents familiar with them could even realize.

The new reporting system under development will also replace the more detailed report card used experimentally last year in all grades K-3, and in Bancroft, K-6. That experimental reporting system was not entirely satisfactory to either teachers or parents. Many teachers felt it was a step in the right direction, but by no means the final reporting instrument they were after. Others just plain didn't like it. Parents seemed to feel they didn't get the real benefit of the much greater detail, without a standard of comparison. The teachers designing the new report are aiming for a common report card, which can include additional elements, where they are justified, for individual schools.

What different kinds of report cards are there? Quite a few.

There's the simple formal "good old-fashioned" report card, with symbol grades based on academic subject matter, deportment, citizenship and attendance. There's the modified editions of the same, in use here recently, with room for teacher's written judgments added.

Analysis of a child's progress in relation to his ability in various areas generally presupposes a more flexible and detailed reporting instrument than the traditional type. This might entail a check list of traits and subject matter categories of skills, an individual letter to the family, or combination including a conference with parents at some point in the year; for only a conference guarantees a feedback of information and reaction.

Then of course there's the ultimate in reporting pupil progress -- a conference that includes not only the parent and the teacher, but the CHILD!

Relax, everybody, before that takes place, Clapp assures us, a lot of learning has to take place on the part of the parents, the students and the school system!

Assistant Superintendent Clapp told the TOWNSMAN his two underlying principles: first, that schools ought to be reporting what it is they are doing, so our schools are now after the best instrument to do that.

Second, when a system is constantly trying to improve its educational program, as in Andover, then that school system will be constantly reviewing its means of evaluating and reporting it, so that the reporting system will continue to reflect the schools' educational program.

In other words, no matter how good a reporting system they have installed next marking period, the elementary principals and teachers are not going to cast it in bronze and use it forever.

Snakes and lizards derive heat from the ground. Basking on the rocks, their body temperature may rise to 95 when the air is 50, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

During the 1890's Rhode Island and Connecticut had no deer, and the sighting of one in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire was very rare, according to the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

At The Library

Book Week

This is Children's Book Week and it has special significance this year since it is the 50th anniversary of its inception. Frederic Melcher, one of the founders of Children's Book Week, stated in 1919 "...by having this one special week we reaffirm our own interest and catch the attention of others who may think that children's reading is not their concern. It is. It is everyone's concern." The Children's Room in the library is holding special programs this week. Thursday, Nov. 20 the story hour will be held as usual with Mrs. Eldridge telling the story this week. On Friday, Nov. 21 at 3:30, there will be a story on records, "Matchlock Gun" and on Saturday there will be two programs of recordings, "Puss in Boots" at 10 a.m. and "Snow Queen" at 2 p.m. In addition to these special programs there is a display of the new fall children's books on exhibit. Parents may wish to browse here during the balance of the week and plan for Christmas.

Christmas

It's easy to make original decorations, Christmas cards, and gifts if you take advantage of the helps that are available in the library. There is time for everyone to put the personal touch in his holiday activity if he starts now. The books are ready and can be taken home for one week. Furthermore, there is a large display of the latest books for Christmas giving. Come in and examine the newest art books, the latest biography which interests you, the up-to-date publications on interior decoration. These can help you make up your mind as to just exactly what to buy for that favorite person.

Memorial

Memorial Hall Library has been given two very fine books on sports in memory of Laurence R. Brucato who was killed in an automobile accident on Nov. 7. An anonymous donor has presented to the library: Jerry Kramer's Farewell to Football by Jerry Kramer, published by World, 1969 and The World Series: The Story of Baseball's Annual Championship by Lee Allen published by Putnam, 1969.

Wreath Taken From Tower

A wreath placed at Memorial Tower, Phillips Academy, in memory of the veterans dead of all wars was removed on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, a few hours after it was placed.

Veterans Agent Elmer S. Ober went to the tower Tuesday morning, Nov. 11, prior to Veterans Day services held by veterans organizations in Spring Grove cemetery.

Ober said he placed the wreath and about three hours later in passing the campus, noticed that the floral tribute had been removed.

Sessions Clarify Health Curriculum

West Elementary School was the setting for the third in a series of presentations by the members of the Human Relationships and Healthful Living Committee. This committee of nine educators, representing four schools in the Town of Andover, including St. Augustine's School, is currently touring the town to present to the parents the new Health Curriculum. The new Health curriculum includes units on Alcohol, Drugs, Sex, Tobacco and also stresses instruction on Social and Emotional Health.

Parents were introduced to the entire curriculum from kindergarten through grade six, including many of the visual aids. It is the committee's intent to bring to all parents the curriculum which will begin as a pilot program in the Henry C. Sanborn School in January. With the training of additional teachers during this school year and the summer of 1970 it will be possible for all elementary schools in Andover to participate in the new Health course.

In the following weeks the Health committee will meet with parents of the following schools:

Nov. 20, St. Augustine's School; Dec. 4, Shawsheen School; Dec. 11, South School and Dec. 18, Sanborn School.

All meetings are on Thursdays and begin at 7:30 p.m.

Greater Boston Camp Fire to which her group belongs.

The well-known assorted chocolates and chocolate turtles are anticipated as an addition to holiday entertaining and are purchased by many people as gifts for the coming gift-giving season.

The Greater Boston Council serves 10,000 girls who enjoy many good things through membership in this oldest girls' organization. Camp Fire, quite distinctively, stresses home orientation along with knowledge of the out-of-doors, crafts and skills for present and future living and a broadly based concept of sharing life on a completely integrated basis.

Your support of the candy sale will not only further Camp Fire goals but the top young saleslady in each of the Council's six districts will be awarded a fully-paid camping experience as a reward for her efforts.

In Andover the Candy Sale chairman is Barbara Fogg. If you have not been home when a candy girl came to your house or wish to place a special order she may be contacted at 50 Summer St.

RECOVERING

Many children's features will be found this year such as games, Santa Claus, silhouettes and a treasure chest. Other features include a bookstall, while elephant table and Girl Scout crafts. Refreshments will be available.

The parish hall, located on Haggitt's Pond Road, may be reached by taking Route 133 east from Route 93, and then taking the first right after Haggitt's Pond.

Board Adopts Regulations For Horses

The Board of Health has adopted new regulations concerning the keeping of horses within the town.

Acting under statutes provided by the General Laws, the board has placed a limit on the number of horses which may be boarded in the community, based on the amount of land occupied by the property owner.

In addition to limiting the amount of horses which may be kept on the property, the board has instituted sanitary regulations and permit fees for the boarding of horses in town.

A complete listing of the regulations will be found on page 26 of this week's TOWNSMAN.

The whitetail deer has always been the most important big game animal in North America, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says. Its range was greater than the bison's and it provided food for more Indians than did the bison.

Editorial Comment

Historic Commission

The thought has been proposed to the selectmen that an article be presented to the annual town meeting in March for the creation of a Historical Commission for Andover.

We think the idea is sound and worthy of consideration.

In a letter to the selectmen, Stanley Saba, has proposed that such a commission be created, particularly in view of the observance within a few short years — 1976 — of the 200th anniversary of our nation.

More than just the noting of the anniversary of the founding of the United States of America, there should be a sincere interest in preserving the history of Andover.

In the years ahead many of Andover's historic landmarks may disappear, through new development, through changing of the landscape, either by necessity, or due to new business.

Even if just a picture of something historic were to become a part of the Andover Historical Society records, then in the years ahead, those to whom Andover will be left can reflect on what Andover was, and how it progressed to its rich American heritage.

The commission is not designed to overlook the Andover Historical Society which continues to do a magnificent job of preserving Andover history.

Its intent is to assist in the preservation of Andover's history.

It is important and timely, for Andover has grown rapidly in the past several years. Many of its residents, we are sure, fail to realize some of the things, the buildings, the people, who brought Andover to its current status.

How many people, for instance, are aware that the location of the Andover Playhouse, which one day soon may pass into obscurity, was once the railroad depot where trains stopped en route to Salem, Mass. via Lawrence and North Andover?

Who would realize that the separation of the Andover's from North and South parish, to North Andover and Andover, all started over the location of whether a new fire truck would be in the north or south section? By the way, the south got the truck and North Andover became a town unto itself.

These are some of the things that a Historic Commission would be looking into and assisting local historians in preserving Andover's rich history.

We would strongly advocate such a commission.

Good Showing

There was a good showing at the town's first Education Town Meeting held Monday night.

There were about 125-150 persons present and a good discussion of the town's education system resulted.

This is the first of what is expected to be a regular series of meetings and it was refreshing to see a good attendance, since as we have mentioned previously, Andover's education budget is the largest expense to the taxpayer.

Affording the residents an opportunity to delve into the school system, obtain information, provide constructive criticism, can only lead to better relations between townspeople and school authorities.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, expressed enthusiasm with the turnout and was pleased with its results.

Continued use of the meeting forum will certainly be beneficial.

The Report Card

A report in this week's issue of the TOWNSMAN deals with the recording of a new system of reporting a child's progress in school.

Rather than carrying home that dreaded piece of cardboard with varied marks running the gamut of A for excellence to F for failure, the child now receives no card, but the parents are asked to come in for a teacher-parent conference.

It may take some time for evaluation of the system.

What it does essentially, is remove the stigma which could befall the child who gives every effort to attain high grades, yet due to lack of talent, cannot achieve the plateau, more readily gained by other pupils in his class.

Through the teacher-parent conference method, the educator can explain to the parent that the child is making every effort, he is attentive, but achievement fails to fall within the scope of his ability.

This is a more accurate picture of the pupil's progress.

A simple mark, denoting failure, or excellence, does not properly portray the pupil progress, and most particularly, the effort he is making to keep up with his class.

Adjustments can be made, the parents informed and essentially, the pupil and the parent become immediately aware of any problems, as well as realizing the youngster's ability.

As modern education progresses, so do methods.

This latest move, a most diverse revision of school making, could be beneficial following a very careful examination of its effects.

The North Andover Historical Society will dedicate two buildings in what is commonly called the old center within the next few weeks. A story dealing with the dedication can be found in the columns of this week's TOWNSMAN.

What makes us a little proud about all the festivities and the dedication ceremonies, is that we, the TOWNSMAN, appear on the newstand of the General Store, a part of the old brick building on the center.

Here, Andover was founded over 300 years ago, the North Parish church, being Andover's first place of worshipful assembly. Later, it became North and South parish, the South church being the place of assembly for those in the southern section.

Eventually, the towns became separate corporate entities.

As the dedication of the historic landmarks takes place, it is pleasant to know that the TOWNSMAN, has its little niche in North Andover's history, serving today as it has in many years past.

The children of the sixth grade at the Bancroft school, put on a display dealing with the study of ancient Egypt last week.

A letter to the desk from Mark Liponis, tells of the work performed by the youngsters in making authentic looking artifacts and the development of a 'museum' called "The Department of Egyptology."

Guides were available to show visitors the collection during its presentation.

Good to see Notre Dame going to a bowl game for the first time in 45 years.

The "Fighting Irish," have consistently turned down bowl bids in the past, but this year have accepted an invitation to participate in the Cotton Bowl game, Jan. 1.

Naturally, it will be a thrill to the countless thousands of subway alumni who follow the South Bend, Indiana club, but its purpose in accepting the invitation should do much to promote college football and athletics in general.

The funds received for participation are not for expansion of the school's athletic program, but to provide money for the underprivileged.

That the school would entertain a bowl bid to benefit the less fortunate is indeed, laudatory, and should provide incentive to other schools to make use of athletic prowess to afford college education to those who may not otherwise be able to gain a degree, 'though intelligent enough to pursue a college career.

It is refreshing to see patriotism coming back into fashion, particularly in view of the demonstrations, etc.

Each week for the past few, the half-time shows by the bands at the professional football games, have been giving their performance over to patriotic tributes.

They have been well done and should make every American proud as the martial rhythms, and the hymns portraying America's heritage, are played.

How quickly we forget.

As America's astronauts, Pete Conrad, Alan Bean and Dick Gordon, headed toward their mission on the moon, it almost seemed as if the American public could care less.

We made it once, so what's the sense of watching anymore, seemed to be the attitude.

In the schoolroom in a nearby community, a class was allowed to watch the blastoff last week, and after almost an hour of live television coverage, returned to their room.

The teacher asked the class to write the names of the three astronauts. Only one in the class was able to come up with the entire crew and another youngster was able to write down two crew members.

At the Andover-North Andover football game next week, there will be some strong family ties performing on the field.

Participants in the bands of both schools, will be performing as their mothers did at the same traditional game back a few years ago.

Kathy Downs and her sister Barbara, daughters of Deputy Fire Chief and Mrs. William Downs, will be participating in the activities of the Andover Highband, while Debbie Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bryant of North Andover, will be participating in the activities of the North Andover band.

Their mothers were members of the Punchard All-Girl band of a few years ago.

The two girls who will be participating Thanksgiving Day are cousins.

Announcement of the firm's intent to locate here came just shortly over a year ago and was the third major manufacture to take up industrial space in Andover within a year, following in the steps of Gillette Manufacturing Co. which built a new structure in Lowell Junction and Raytheon Manufacturing Co., which is building a new plant in West Andover.

posals. She said the high pay increases the AEA proposed for each step of the bachelor's pay scale, combined with the proposal to put teachers on the scale's maximum pay in 10 years instead of 12, would mean a pay increase of $3100 for many teachers next September.

The school committee counterproposal adds a $200 increase at every step of the present 12-step bachelor scale and sets up a new pay scale for "Bachelors Degree plus 30 hours in-service." There is also a new "Master's plus 30 hours in-service" scale. Mrs. Cole said it would give bachelor's degree teachers "a place to go" from the bachelor's pay scale even if they are not enrolled for a master's degree. The new master's plus scale would have the same effect.

Mrs. Enman rejected the School Committee counterproposal and questioned its good faith. She and Regan said the bachelor's pay scale was "punitive," especially its maximum, and was not likely to retain first-rate teachers more than a year or so.

Mrs. Cole countered by pointing out that it was not pay alone that drew teachers, but working conditions. And on dollars, she pointed out that only 24 of the 450 Massachusetts towns pay a higher bachelor's minimum than Andover; 142 pay higher bachelor's maximum but Mrs. Cole did not think 142nd out of 450 was a bad position to hold. She pointed out that the School Committee deliberately had set up a pay scale which provided bachelor's degree teachers with incentives toward professional improvement and higher degree, now they were offering two new pay scales to further reward professional improvement beyond the regular bachelors scale, or masters scale, even if it did not lead to a higher degree.

Beneath the wide dollar disagreement of the negotiators, lies a new concept in education for Andover. The AEA has proposed, and the school committee has accepted, with its own refinements, the principle of a town giving credit toward financial increments for in-service courses.

The implications for Andover are both educational and financial. Teachers have hitherto filled their "professional improvement" requirements every two years by courses at local or education colleges, or nearby universities.

The town budgets $13,000 to pay these tuition, as long as the course taken is in the teacher's field.

But it was common knowledge that the course's actual benefit to the teacher's teaching and the school system was haphazard, depending on the content and emphasis of the course. Some courses are excellent and applicable. Some are good, but not especially geared to the teacher's interest or need, while some education courses are nicknamed "mickeymouse" courses for their subliminal intellectual thresholds. Sometimes its hard to know beforehand how valuable a course will be, except as a requirement-filler for the teacher. But there's been no alternative.

What the Andover schools are now heading for are after-school professional improvement courses designed for the Andover teachers. The town will pay for an instructor's salary, but there are no tuitions. This does not mean that teachers would not be taking courses at outside institutions towards higher degrees, or for special interest. It does mean that a teacher wishing to improve himself and fulfill payscale requirements at the same time, will be able to do so through a course right in Andover, designed for Andover educational program.

Even before the first snowflake descends, refreshing news comes to the desk from the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

A release this week informs us that the annual and traditional salute to spring is set for March 14-22, when the annual New England Flower show will be held at Suffolk Downs.

'Tis good news as we apprehensively await the first snowfall, and witness the bareness of trees and the graying surrounding most assuredly heralding the arrival of winter.

Warriors Romp, 36-0 Vs. Methuen

THIRD TOUCHDOWN. Dave Hixon crashes through the Methuen line to score Andover's third touchdown in 36-0 romp over Methuen's Rangers last Saturday at Methuen's Highfield stadium.

A TD ROMP. Van Debose of Andover's Golden Warriors takes off on a 25 yard scoring romp last Saturday as the local club easily disposed of Methuen to gain the first leg on the Little Three crown for 1969. Here, he is shown outrunning four Methuen players for a 25-yard touchdown run.

Andover High evened its season football record and gained a leg on the Little Three crown last Saturday as it romped easily over Methuen at the latter's Highfield stadium, 36-0.

The Golden Warriors now have a record of 4 and 4 in the season and will be heavily favored to dump North Andover on Thanksgiving day at the Eugene V. Lovely field.

The locals had an easy time of it Saturday combining a rugged defense with a superb offense to overrun the Rangers, almost from beginning to end in the traditional rivalry between the two schools.

In the first quarter, Dave Hixon slammed over from a short distance to score Andover's first touchdown, capping a series of only a few plays after the Warriors got their hands on the ball.

Bill Moriarty made it 8-0 by taking over the extra points try with the game only slightly over two minutes old.

Shortly thereafter Joe Santalasci blocked a Methuen punt on the Rangers' 30 yard line and Warrior co-captain and guard jumped on the ball in the end zone for Andover's second score.

Ted Palmieri started the second half off with a 65-yard touchdown run on the kickoff, eluding several Methuen tacklers on the way.

The conversion was good on a pass from Co-Captain Don Pattullo to Shawn Mason, six-foot, seven inch end.

Shortly after, Hixon again scored on a handoff from Pattullo.

Van Debose capped the Andover scoring by pulling off a fake that fooled almost everybody in the ballpark. His 25 yard run romping by several Methuen defenders, brought the score up to 36-0, after which just about everybody on the Andover club saw action.

The warrior defense was the stingiest it has been all season, the Rangers being held to a total of 45 yards rushing and making only slight gains through the air. The traditional rivalry between Andover and North Andover will get underway at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Day and, as mentioned previously, the Warriors will be heavy favorites.

Prior to the start of the game, ceremonies will be conducted by members of Puncard and Andover football teams, dedicating the field in memory to the late Eugene V. Lovely, coach and headmaster at the school for many years.

Father, Son Night To Feature Pats

The Patriots will be on the Green again this Thursday. This time the Patriots aren't the early American variety and the green is the Rolling Green in Andover. A trio of gridiron greats will highlight the father and son night meeting of the Andover Service Club.

Tom Neville, Len St. Jean and

Art McMahon will relate some of the behind the bench activities for the members and their sons. A social hour at 5:30 will provide an opportunity for the youngsters to gather autographs and some pro tips from the players.

Dinner is at 6:30. For further information contact John D. Lewis.

Toys For Tots Drive Opens

The annual "Toys for Tots Drive" in the Greater Lawrence Area has been officially opened by the members of the Armament Repair Platoon, United States Marine Corps Reserve, who are located at the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, North Parish Road, Lawrence.

Major Edmund F. Dowd, Jr., USMC, Officer-in-Charge, stated that since the program began 17 years ago through the efforts of the local Marine Corps Reservists of the Los Angeles, Calif., area, it has grown steadily and now is in its 17th year. It is carried out in every major town and city in the United States that supports an organized Marine Corps Reserve unit.

The purpose of the program is to collect new and usable toys which will be redistributed by the Marine Corps Reservists to underprivileged children in this area, to insure that they also have a very Merry Christmas. Annually the citizens of the Greater Lawrence Area have donated over 4,000 toys.

Major Dowd also stated that toys may be left in the receptacles provided at all of the fire stations in the Greater Lawrence area, or at the Reserve Training Center on North Parish Road, Lawrence.

ON TOP ONCE AGAIN. Inclement weather has provided problems for construction workers at the new public safety center on North Main street and also at the site of the new West elementary school addition. Roofers had been unable to do any shingling, until the weather cleared. Here, workmen are shown as they finished up the roofing project on the safety center administration building this week.

Release Time For Children Work Days For Teachers

The School Committee Tuesday night heard and approved plans for 10 half-days of released time (Curriculum Days) for teachers for the remainder of this year.

All will be devoted to one purpose -- the establishment of a kindergarten through 12th grade curriculum in each field of study by the end of this year.

Toward this end, the elementary, junior and senior high teachers will stir themselves up and divide up instead according to field of study -- math or social sciences, etc. Each group will spend the 10 released-time half-days developing a step-by-step course of study in their field which will move in a deliberate way from the earliest grade levels through senior high school.

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert called it "the first step toward a fluid flexible educational structure for Andover" ...and said that all too long staff members have participated in work in programs at their own grade level, without knowing what comes before and after.

School committee members, unanimously passed William A. Doherty's motion to approve the released time to achieve "objectives, concepts skills units and long range ideas" in each instructional area.

A coordination committee of teachers and administrators will steer the activities and keep both the school department and school committee informed of progress.

Tuesday, Dec. 9, will be their first system-wide release time half-day (Circle the date, mothers!) Dr. Seifert plans a discussion with the entire staff on the objectives and framework for the year's released-time activity.

Seifert says the 10 half-day sessions will allow the staff to get to the problem of articulating the curriculum. Articulation means staff agreement on the material to be covered, then arranging it in sequential steps, so that the instruction programs of different schools at the same level are coordinated together and there is articulation from one level to another; this assures that students can pass from one level to the next without gaps (missing an important step) or duplication (repeating a step already mastered) in an individual student's program.

Seifert warned that establishment of a sequential curriculum program, one point of the work program he set out for himself this year, will not mean that Andover will have an ungraded set-up by the end of this year - that will take more time, money and effort than is available now, he told the TOWNSMAN.

Other benefits which the superintendent expects to come from the sessions devoted to K-12 curriculum are related to changes in teaching materials and to new teachers. Seifert expects that the sessions will help all teachers become acquainted with new teaching materials which some are finding very useful; another benefit will be picking up ideas from the new teachers in the system, and giving these new teachers an opportunity to become acquainted with the overall approach of the Andover system.

Curriculum Days are not new to Andover. Such periodic half-holidays for students are planned to give teachers released time to meet together, usually within their school level, to mend or extend the fabric of the educational program. Double sessions temporarily suspended this inservice program at the elementary level last year.

Residents who have lived in Andover more than a decade will remember that a dozen years ago, public school was out every Wednesday for most pupils, with teachers using the time to give help to students who were behind.

The automatic Wednesday afternoon off ended abruptly (can the kids blame Sputnik?) and periodic Curriculum Days were instituted a year or so later to acquaint teachers with new programs or to accomplish various other inservice training purposes.
